WELCOME to the USAC MOPAR "Generation Next" Round 9 INDIANAPOLIS MOTOR SPEEDWAY - It's Friday!

Dan Weldon Won the Indy 500 for 2011

Today is day everyone has been waiting for - A Main Day. Today's drivers are racing for the honor of owning a Championship at the 3rd Annual "Battle at the Brickyard". There were 247 cars here beginning Tuesday until today. All week, we have talked about Indianapolis traditions. Dan Weldon Won the Indy 500 this year and his Victory Lane Celebration will long be remembered. Your drivers will experience some of those traditions today. We hope you have had a great time at the Brickyard. We hope you have made some friends, had fun, and made some fantastic memories! On behalf of the United States Auto Club, thank you for coming!

Check out that beautiful wreath that hangs around him!

Today marks a very special day in the history of USAC MOPAR .25 Midget Racing. Johnny Parsons III, the son of Indy Car driver Johnny Parsons, Jr. has developed into a racer in his own right. At the age of nine, Johnny Parsons III began racing with 1/4 midgets where he learned the thrill of winning and the desire for competition.

One more day to visit the Indy Museum. Adults $5; Children 6-15 years old $3; Children under 6 FREE!

WOW How QuarterMidgets Have Changed

Briggs and Stratton racing, believes in history. "This car is a great piece of Briggs History. During this event, Briggs searched out and found an extremely rare 1933 Floyd Dreyer midget racer. In the 1930's builders such as 'Pop's' Dreyer and Cannonball Baker began building scaled midget cars, powered by Briggs and Stratton engines. On May 26-27th the 'Children's Speed Classic' was held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway dating quarter midget and Briggs and Stratton's involvement in racing to the 1930's. Photos are courtesy of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway photo archives from the Children's Speed Classic. "It was very cool seeing your families interest in such a rare piece of racing history," commented Dave Klaus. Just a reminder - Briggs will be awarding Savings Bonds for 1st, 2nd, 3rd & 4th for Junior, Senior, & Unrestricted Animal & Light and Heavy World Formula Classes. Be sure to return your Bond forms to Coast 2 Coast Racing News by September 30.
